Murdock A. Campbell, Vermont's Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, suggests laws to bar pedestrians from walking on the right side of the highways or "taking to the middle of the road." He believes foot travelers should wear metal reflectors or white jackets on night journeys, where lighting facilities are poor. He said getting such regulations passed would be difficult because legislators fear restriction of personal rights.

Colonel F. C. Harrington has ordered a reduction of WPA employees from 2,348,000 to 2,120,000 effective in April. This cut in relief workers will be followed by others. It is expected these orders will result in an enrollment of 1,500,000 by June 30, and enable the agency to operate within the $1,477,000,000 voted by Congress for the current fiscal year. Maine's enrollment will be reduced by 1,000 dismissals.

In their feud over what questions are to be included in the 1940 census, President Roosevelt accuses Senator Tobey of New Hampshire of "inciting the people to violate the law." A countercharge has been received by the President that he is using "Hitlerian tactics" in operation of government affairs.

The National Economy League as serts that the federal debt exceeds the $45,000,000,000 limit set by law. The league claims that "outside the budget" transactions are responsible and that, on Feb. 26, the "'direct" debt was $42,350,000,000 with added government debt of $5,700,000,000 through issuance, by Government corporations, of securities guaranteed by the Government.

Norwood could almost physically feel those diamonds in his tunic pocket. He should have asked Lynn not to mention them. He knew that. It was too late to turn back. And besides, she was having a row with her aunt and it wouldn't be exicket to butt in. He wished he hado't seen Lynn blos Rundhia. There were two things that Norwood wched to do that minute. One was to punch Rundhia. The other was to no to the temple and throw those ediamonds at the high priest.

"Look here, Diwan sahib, I'd be awfully glad to talk things over with you now, but I have urgent business at the Residency."

"Oh, but Captain Norwood, we could phone the Residency." "That wouldn't help, I'm afraid.

I'm not expected there. I need the Resident's advice."

"Ah, but Captain Norwood, is not our need greater? Documents, arguments, some witnesses, are ready now! His Highness has postponed important business to be present. He is waiting in the Council room. This boundary dispute is so urgent and its implications so important, that we feel our importunity is justified. We beg you." "Oh, well."

Norwood could almost feel those diamends, burning him through the lining of his tunic packet. Tension crept into his normally easy manner. The ministers detected it. Tenplou became mutual.

"I hope you'll bear in mind I'm in a hurry."

Two cars started from Rundhia's palace door within two minutes of each other. Having brought Run-Ihia's nose-bleed under control, the Bengali doctor drove away first, in the smaller car, for a professional call on Aunty Harding. If he had been going to his own execution, he might have looked equally comfortless. Perhaps he dreaded Aunty Harding's temper, perhaps something else.

Rundnia, a moment or two later, allmbed into the new Rolls-Royce and laid his head back on the cushions, to prevent the nose-bleed from recurring. He was still bleeding alightly. He kept dabbing with a handkerchief. "The British Residency!"

The Russian chauffeur drove like fury, but Rundhia made him slow down near the Residency gate. Though he affected to despise all ceremonial, Rundhia took cynical pleasure in making sure they should turn out the guard. He had phoned to say he was coming, so he was shown into the dim library, where the chades were drawn against the brazen sunlight, and the Realdent didn't keep him waiting more than a couple of minutes.

"How are you, Rundhia. How is the new Rolls Royce behaving"" Rundhia dabbed at his nose with the handkerchief. "The car is quite well, thank you. How are you?"

"Jodha is such a crock he couldn't cut up if he tried," said Rundhia. "One leg in the grave. The other's rotten. Why drag him in? He'll be dead soon."

"Falling acceptable heirs, the throne of Kadur can be escheated. I am warning you, Rundhla." "Thanks! I have heard you. Now it's my turn and I'll warn you. It's what I came for. Who is this Captain Norwood? I notice you didn't present him at the palace. He came alone. Why? Are you keeping your hands off? Why does he carry diamonds in his tunic pocket? Why is he nervous when someone happens to see them? Is he one of your British gentlemen who never-never under any circumstances, never take a bribe?
